

Make Way For Super Bowl Sunday

By Dale Good

Super Bowl Sunday conjures up images of bowls of salsa and chips, buffalo wings, those hugh hoagie sandwiches cut up into neat little slices, BBQ, dogs and hamburgers on the grill and, of course, football. All shared with you and some of your best buddies. However for some, not me, Super Bowl Sunday is another kind of a day all together. Maybe you just don't like football, or maybe you need to work on that special relationship with that special someone. So if your team doesn't make it to the big game, heaven forbid, and you're upset enough to swear off of football until next August when your hopes can be trashed again, make the best of the day, score some points on your own.

Tell your significant other that your going to make the supreme sacrifice, because you love her dearly, and are going to take her to the mall for some serious shopping. Just think, the mall to yourselves on Super Bowl Sunday, sounds wonderful, doesn't it? Just don't tell her that the team you wanted in the game isn't there and that's why you just can't stand to watch it. Believe me, you can score a lot of points with this mall thing.

Or you can take your sweetie for an early Valentine's dinner at that special restaurant, no reservations required on Super Bowl Sunday. Just make sure there isn't a bar or lounge where you could get caught sneaking looks at the game. If you're worried about a casual glimpse of the game, go to the movies. Take her to that chick flick that you have so successfully avoided, again the supreme sacrifice for you honey, a chick flick on Super Bowl Sunday, I love you so much! Just think no standing in line for popcorn.

How about a nice picnic on the beach? Enjoy a nice fresh salad, a little wine, a casual walk, and enjoy a beautiful sunset. Isn't this better than a hot dog loaded up with onions, peppers and a beer in front of your giant screen HD TV with your good buddies enjoying the most important sporting event of the year?

Of course, if you can stand to be in the same room with a TV and not turn it on, get out that dusty monopoly game, get your sweetie and a couple of friends and see who can build the first hotel on Boardwalk.

So there's your ticket for love and romance, you heard it here first. As for me, I'm popping the top, enjoying the dog, trashing my stomach on salsa and chips and doing it in the company of my best buddies right there in front of the TV.

A guitar has two sides, a top and a back. The sides and back are made with a hard wood and the front is made with a soft wood. This is similar to how a violin is made.

He starts by picking out the woods. The first process is to bend the sides with a pipe that heats up the wood and makes it malleable.

Kinnard's extensive shop is laid out with various stations that show the step-by-step process of building and carving the guitar from this point.

He is seeking students who want to learn the craft and art of the luthier.
